PROFILE

I'm Allison. A Marylander born and bred, who thinks any crab that's not blue crab, isn't crab at all. I did jump the Potomac for college as I became and still am a proud Hokie, who discovered the power of web design and photography in Blacksburg, along with college football. I've been a creative my whole life, though in my younger years this was writing more than graphics however combining the two is still a dream of mine as I have a screenplay and children's book I'd love to someday have produced/publish. I'm in love with paper and inks, and am an expert proofer. I'm passionate about what I believe in, love typography and vector. I've got an Elvis-style grin, a great laugh and wicked wit I'm told.
